TO THE COUNTRY. ONE YEAR.

To our Country Patrons

Messrs. Editors: It is generally considered hat the rebellion is now about at an end. Kentucky is tree from war and its attendants save a few predatory bands of guerrillas, which are being pursued with vigilance and success. While an apparent necessity existed in the past for the asammption of extraordiforce of the order proclaiming martial law? We call your attention to the above simply because the citizens of Kentucky are vitally ressed to ne, and pass the question of martial w over to the Commander of the Department. The considerations presented by our correspondent are demanding the attention of every one. It is the common it quiry we hear on every side. It is unquestionable that all necessity for martial law, if it ever existed, has now passed away. The rebellion is virtually at au end. Neither national nor individusi protection any longer requires the nee of extraordinary means. Is the fight and State sovereign y, the doc-trine of the fathers, I was willing to stake my life, my fortune and all my hopes. Mr. John-aou thought it his duty, when Tennessee se-ceded, to hold on to his piece, to set at naught the socion of his State, which had so often honored him, and to piace himself under the projection of the United States. There was no need of offering $25,000 res ward for my arrest. If I felt the least agent ance of being thed according to the recognized principles of law, without a pre-judgment, without the arbitrariness of a court acting under the instructions of this "Burean of Military Justice," and without contumely, I would go in person and deliver myself up to the proper judicial anthonities. Until I have such an assurance, I think I ought to keep out of the way, which, no donbt, will gratify my energies.

INFIF you want a good plane, at a sensible price go to McCarrell's, 310 Jefferson street. Ancient Fine Arts

To the Editor of the New York Herald : Respecting the relics of porcelain ware four d in the late exhumations at Herculanenm which have been forwarded to the Society of Astiquities, in London, whereof your corresponden save the bottle resembling Drake's Plantation Bitters was undoubtedly placed among the ruins by the egent of Dr. Drake, we desire to state that he is incorrect in every respect. If a bottle was found there bearing our lettering. the language of the Ancient Romans was different from the accepted literature of that day. Our agent has other business than this in Europe, and has not been in Italy at all. No doubt Americans carry Plautation Bitiers to BAR'D MUSLIN WRAPPERS Rome: but trying to impose upon a society of Antiquerlans in this way sceme quite useless. and we do not appreciate the icke. It is unnecessary for us to spend money in Europe while we are unable to supply the demand for these celebrated Bitters here.

Two steam engines were on the spot as soon as the alarm could be given, but instead of throwing water on the burning stable they did not go to work for half an hour. During this delay a brick residence, fifty feet from the stable, caught fire, and before the engines could do any good the residence was burned. These was no in prance on the buildings and both belonged to Mr. Pat. Riley. The origin of the fire is un-

The above notice appeared in the Democrat of yesterdsy, and as it is calculated to do injustice to the fire department we make the following explanation: Since the establishment of the fire alarm telegraph it is provided that in the upper and lower districts but two engines should go to a fire uniess upon a second alarm in case of a large fire. On the occasion of the Kellar and Campbeli street fire there were two engines promptly on the ground. There being no ciaterns within eighteen hundred feet they were compelled to get water out of a pond sixteen hundred feet from the fire and that too after digging a hole sufficiently deep to cover the strainer of the suction-hence the delay in putting on water. Colonel Johnson, Chief of the Fire Department, and others connecte with the department have always done all in their power, and with cisterns at the proper points fires will have no headway.

CONSOLATION. The the torrent of the world is rough and strong, No eyes with loving tenderness gilsten, I cannot sing a truth inspiring song, If none on earth will listen. The angel answered: Wherefore dost thou sigh?
The courser faints not ere his race be rua—
The meanest bless im may not, can not die
Before its work be done.

The prayer bells in thy heart should summon sit The world all day, at moon, at eve, at dawning, And not like youder church upon the hill, Ouly on Sunday morning,

The belfry repes have hung a long long time, But on y midulght breezes make them quiver Let thy heart ring, like some cathedral chime, Forever and forever, If there be none to hearken to thy song— No ear to heed—no loving eyes to glusten— God's little wood-bride sing the whole day long. And care not who with insten.

Then let the roces of thy fancy peep Within the love lit cottage of thy heart; And, like a consecreted ressure keep. The knowledge of thine art.

And lift thy trusting eyes nuto the cky,
For heaven—not carth—chail give thy words a hear ng,
Speak truth undanutedly, and live and die
Life loving, death unfearing. Secon not thy life—it is the gift of God; Scorn not thy sind—they are his children too. The dark blue violet rises from the sod All the long winter through:

It throws a smile upon each winter day— A fragrance o'er the frosty atmesphere; Thou hast had many winters; I will stay With thee another year,

A St. PETERSBURG SCANDAL .- A very queer story is told about some prominen people in Petersburg. A German actress, who by her beauty had won the hearts of every nobleman in the Russian metropolis, went home and was just going to take her tea after the great triumph which she had achieved in the theater, when her servant girl entered, and an-nounced the vieit of the young count N-, a favorite of the Emperor, and chamberlain to his Majesty, whose father is one of the highest functionaries of the empire. It was impossible to refuse admittance to a man of so exalted a position, and the ac-trees received him. The young men said he had come by order of the Emperor, who admired the lady's acting very much, and desired to thank her for the extraordinary pleasure she had afforded to his Majesty; at the same time he requested the lady to accept a radiant diamond bracelet which he gave her as a token of his personal admiration. After having talked about art for some time, he asked permission to take supper with her and surprised her by the an-neuncement that he had brought the supper with him. The actress, who knew the influ-ence of the Count at court, could do nothing but thank him for the delicate attention, and accept the invitation. But before the couple had time to sit down to the table, there appeared the servant girl, and im mediately after her Count N-, the father of the young Count, looking rather sur-prised to find his son, who bit his lips that he might not laugh. The lady thought, "How will this end?" The old courtier soon recevered his coolness, and said very politely that he came by order of his Majesty to congratulate the lady upon her success. The actress smiled more maliciously than obligingly. The old Count then addressed his son and told him to go to court, since he was expected there. The son made a wry face, but the Count added: "I will take supper with this young lady and wait for you here." The on took leave, and was going to leave the room, when all at once the door opened, and nobody less entered that his Majesty in propria persona. His Majesty asked, rather excitedly, what gave him the pleasure of seeing the two gentlemen at this place, when both of them replied that they had come to congratulate the young actress. "Very well," said his Majesty, "you may go now. I do not want you any longer Father and son departed, and his Majesty condescended to accept the supper which the young lady humbly offered to the Em

ANECDOTE OF MR. LINCOLN. When Mr. Lincoln received the news of his nomination to the Presidency in the fall of 1859, he was playing base-ball in this city in the place where the wigwam atood last fall. Just before receiving the telegraph dispatch, the ball, struck by the hand of an Irishman named Carmody hit Mr. Lincoln just behind the ear, and he and Carmody were langhing at the occurrence when the dispatch was placed in his hands. Upon reading it he said: "Well, boys, they have given it to me," meaning the nomination. Carmody then invited Mr. Lincoln into his grocery, and while the latter was standing at the counter he said:
"Well, Carmody, will you vote for me?"
Carmody replied: "Mr. Lincoln, I cannot vote for you, I will have to vote for Mr. Douglas." "But I know you will not work against me, Carmody," replied the President. "That I will not, Mr. Lincoln," was the answer of the Irishman, and he kept his word. Such an occurrence illustrates the simplicity of Republican America about as forcibly as the taking of Cincinnatus from his plow did that of Kepnblican Rome in the days when it was a

PAPERS RELATING TO THE DEATH AND PUNER-AL OBSEQUIES OF THE LATE PRESIDENT. The committee of the late funeral obsequies, having charge of invitations, are collecting all letters, accounts of papers, newspapers, &c, containing the death and funeral obsequies of the late President. They intend to make a connected history of the same and deposit it with the ar-chives of the State. They solicit editors, in and out of the State, to forward any newspapers or documents they may have relating to the subject. Many fine articles have been written on Mr. Lincoln's death, which should be thus preserved in a form for future use and reference. The commit-cage are already being erected, and every preparation is being made to have it a success. Special premiums on stock, ranging from $100 to $500, will soon be anneunced. It is stated that the prospect for a successful Fair is good. The Fair will commence on the 4th day of September. A DASE AT THE CATHOLICS -A FAILURE.

-There was a conference of pastors of various denominations at St. Paul's Methodist church, in New York, one night last week, to see if a union of Protestants to arrest the progress of the Catholic Church could be agreed upon. Rev. Dr. Bacon sen an eesay that was read by his son. He thought Christian union one of the most feasible things in the world. The Congregational platform was large enough for all creation, and all the sects had to do was to come on to the platform, and all would be one. They could not give up infant baptism, and so could not the Baptists; could not give up the right to ordain their own ministers, therefore could not accept the Episcopacy; could not give up the in-dependence of the Churches, and therefore could not be Presbyterians. But all these could become Congregationalists easily. Dr. Vermilye represented the Presbyterian and Reformed Dutch element. He regarded his sect as holding the middle ground between the extremes of Congregational independ-ency and Episcopacy. He stated distinctly that it was folly to talk about Christian union while the Baptists excluded Christians from their communion table because they were not immersed, and Episcopalians excluded ministers from their pulpits who were ordained by a Presbytery. Dr. West-ern spoke for the Baptists; he said the baeis of Christian union was: "One Lord, one faith, one baptism." One Lord and one faith they already had. Now let all have the one baptism-in other words, become Baptists—and the union would be complete. He said it was no part of the duty of Baptists to sacrifice their views on that question. Bishop Cox represented the Episcopalians. The feebleness of the Protestant Church consisted in its being in squads and not an organized army. The only basis of union was the church lorganization known as the Episcopalians. As the Congregationslists insisted on their notions as the basis of Christian union—as Dr. Vermilye said that if to be one all mnet stand on the Baptist or Episcopalians or the Baptists refused to yield immersion, and the Episcopalians ordination by a Bishop—the impossibility of a further union than now exists was demonstrated—and the Convention adjourned.—National Intelligences and the union would be complete. journed.-[National Intelligencer.
